

CCS
AF RESEARCH
AWARD

Are you a Canadian MD, PhD or PharmD involved in clinical, health services or population-based research on AF?

You may be eligible for one of up to three 3-year research awards of as much as $100,000.

Priority research areas for advancing knowledge and practice in AF include:

- Improving diagnosis of AF
- Managing AF and improving patient care
- Preventing stroke in AF
- Addressing needs of special populations with AF

Submission deadline - March 15, 2015 (11:59 pm) — Award notification - June 15, 2015

For eligibility criteria and submission details, visit www.ccsafresearchaward.ca

Canadian Cardiovascular Society
Leadership. Knowledge. Community.

Proudly supported by the Bristol-Myers Squibb/Pfizer alliance

Bristol-Myers Squibb

